Digital Mixed Media Art

ABOUT ME

I'm a retired university professor (*1964) living in Germany.

My pictures are digitally created mixed-media scenes, in which photos of railway models have been embedded into virtual worlds. While some pictures show prototype-oriented model scenes, others do not fit to a particular era. In some pictures, trains run through landscapes that seem to come either from dystopian near-future settings or from a fictitious past. Some scenes seem to be fallen out of time in a rather disturbing way. For the creation of the virtual environments, I started using screenshots from computer games. Later, I used AI tools. In some pictures, I let the AI adopt the style of a particular game. This way, there is no break in style compared with the older pictures.
